

ABSTRACT

A method of making a metal part by semi-solid metal injection molding which includes combining a first solid metal portion and a second liquid metal portion in a first chamber of an injection molding machine to form a semi-solid metal slurry and injecting the semi-solid metal slurry into a mold cavity to form a molded metal part.